

Reality TEA

April 15, 2010

Jill Zarin Embarrassed By Her Behavior, Plus The Real Housewives of NYC Preview

Jill Zarin continues her redemption tour. The Real Housewives of New York City star did a chat with gawker during which she dished out advice to fans in an attempt to promote her new book, Secrets of a Jewish Mother.

When asked if she wishes she had handled her fight with Bethenny Frankel differently, she answered, "I think I was out of my mind ... Bobby, empty nest thoughts, and private matters. I am embarrassed."

Jill also held a release party for her new book Wednesday night and she revealed she invited all the NYC housewives in an attempt to try to get them on Team Jill, no just kidding! She didn't say that ofcourse, our Jill would never do such a thing! She did however reveal that she invited Bethenny as well, who as expected did not show up. In attendance were Kelly, new housewife Jennifer Gilbert, and Luann as pictured above. Also in attendance was Ramona. Bethenny however did show up to Alex and Simon's book signing last week for their new book, Little Kids, Bit City. Photos from that are below.

When asked if she would like to be friends with Bethenny again, "Of course I would," answered Jill, also telling Hollywoodlife, "I've already said sorry many times" to Bethenny! Wonder if that sorry came before or after the recent backlash, especially taking into consideration the fact that she referred to Bethenny's wedding as being "circus-like" just two weeks ago.

You be the judge of whether or not she is sincere. Moving right along to tonight's new episode of the NYC Housewives. We finally get to meet one of the two new housewives tonight as Sonja Morgan makes her debut on the show. Sonja, 45, is a single mom of one, and the ex-wife of John Adams Morgan, the great-grandson of financier JP Morgan. Sonja is said to be good friends with the Countess and Ramona.